Last ride on the fire truck

MADISON — The old white Mack No. 2 fire engine was polished and the brass trim shone brightly in the morning sun.

But this truck wasn't going to a fire.

THE VOLUNTEER Fire Department honored the memory of Joseph Kaleta Friday morning with a privilege few firemen receive — a final ride on a fire truck.

Kaleta, 78, died Feb. 25 after being ill for seven months. He was a 44-year veteran of the Madison Volunteer Fire Department, and it was his request that a fire engine be used instead of a hearse to carry his casket.

"It started out being my idea to do this," said Madison Fire Chief Eldon Rhoads. "He wanted the same thing and that's what we gave him."

THE HONOR accorded Kaleta is the first for any Madison fireman. Rhoads said that using firemen as pallbearers is not unusual, but utilizing a fire truck instead of a hearse has never been done.

"Using the fire truck isn't common," Rhoads said. "We have never used it in a funeral."

It was uncommon for the people of Madison also.

Curious spectators were parked in cars across from the Lahey-Sedlack Funeral Home waiting for the casket to be loaded onto the pumper. A man with a camera was in the parking lot of the funeral home, while another man stood with a camera across the street.

THE KALETA FAMILY and friends slowly left the funeral home as the bronze colored casket was slowly lifted onto the truck by six Madison firemen. Each firefighter was dressed in full uniform and wore a light blue carnation on his lapel.

Led by a police escort, the pumper's old engine rumbled as the vehicle moved down Madison Avenue. Four firemen stood on the back, two sat in the open cab and one sat with the casket.

The truck then turned down Third Street and past the Madison fire station, which was draped in black. As the truck passed, nine blasts of the fire whistle pierced the cold morning air.

WITH ITS RED, white and blue lights flashing, the truck started down Reynolds Street, heading toward the Sacred Heart of Jesus Polish National Catholic Church, where Kaleta was a member.

At the first sign of the funeral procession, a church bell began to ring.

The white pumper pulled in front of the church and the pallbearers slowly lifted the casket off the truck and carried it into the church.

The ride was over. Just the way Joseph Kaleta wanted it.

Hiding Five lay low after murder

GRANITE CITY — Their hideout in a semi-rural area looks clean, tranquil; there's no hint of the anxiety within felt by the three seated at the kitchen table.

Harsh sunlight strikes the face of Pete Bellovich, 22, a thin, reddish-blond man with desperate blue eyes.

In a little cage behind him, a mouse tests the bars.

He lights a cigarette, then fumbles with the pack as, in a shaking voice, he tells of why he and five other persons left their Granite City homes to go into hiding.

Talking isn't easy. His voice cracks. He wipes his eyes.

"They've run us out of our home," he says. Bellovich is a fugitive; guilty of being at the wrong place at the wrong time. He says his life is threatened.

He was at the home of Gloria Gram, 4803 Kirkpatrick Homes, on the night of Feb. 12; the night Ricky Sanders was beaten to death, allegedly by Robert Carroll, 22. Bellovich can't forget that night.

"Mr. Carroll came back and said Ricky had hit him and he wanted something to hit him back," he recalls.

"I told Mr. Carroll that we didn't have anything except a weightlifting bar. Mr. Carroll ran upstairs and got the bar off the weights."

Police say the bar was used to kill Ricky Sanders.

Bellovich was leaving the apartment, he pushed Bellovich and Gram out of his way, says Bellovich.

They say they didn't realize what was about to happen.

"Bobby came back and three other men were there. He put the bar back on the set. There was no sign of blood."

After the altercation, an injured Carroll sought treatment, Bellovich says.

She (Gram) put peroxide on a scratch on his head," Bellovich says. "He was upset but it was like he wasn't satisfied with what had happened."

All threats serious

Threats are normal in a murder case.

The Ricky Sanders case is no exception.

"There have been a lot of threats in this case," said Granite City Police Detective Robert Krause. "Most of it's idle talk; people letting off steam."

But threats are not taken lightly. He said the police are a better way to deal with threats than running and hiding.

He tried to tell this to Pete Bellovich and Gloria Gram.

"They were concerned about their well-being since she owned the weightlifting bar used in the incident," Krause said.

"I told them if they were receiving threats to call the police at the time and we will get there and do something," he said.

Running was not an alternative Krause gave them.

"I think they are going overboard," he said.

Now that Robert Carroll has been brought back into custody by Granite City police, Police Chief Bill Harris thinks the threats will stop.

"It's just a lot of talk," he said.

Just planning on enjoying retirement

By DONNA KIMBRO
Staff writer

MADISON — With a twinkle in her eyes and a quick smile, Edna McLinn said she is "just planning on enjoying retirement" after working 45 years as secretary at Madison High School.

She will end her career with the school district at the end of April and begin a more relaxed lifestyle. She hopes to travel a bit.

Sunday focus

A LIFELONG RESIDENT of Madison, McLinn attended Harris School through the eighth grade and graduated from Madison High.

"I really was a January graduate. However, I continued certain classes until June to prepare me to enter a school of nursing," she said.

"Circumstances did not permit this so I started working through an NYA program and then I was hired as a part-time secretary for the Board of Education, located then at the old school building on Third Street."

"I BECAME a full-time employee in June 1941. After the office of superintendent was moved from the high school, I was the only (MHS) secretary."

"Then in the summer of 1953 we got another secretary and in August 1978 we had 2½ girls working. That sounds funny but she spent half the time at the high school and half at the board office."

"There have been quite a few changes through the years and, in the 1940s, many students left high school in their senior year to enter the armed forces. Even though they left before graduation, they had enough credits to receive their diplomas even though they could not attend the graduation exercises."

"IN THE LATE 1960s the civil rights program brought about more changes and the school district complied with these new innovations."

"I have seen many of our students go on to college and return to the Madison school district for positions."

"Some that I can remember right now are John Harrison, a social studies teacher, Mark Jiles, a science and math teacher, Nina Dittman, the school district nurse, Edward Votupol, who teaches science, and Charlie Ann Hackett, an English teacher," McLinn said.

REMINISCING about changes since the 1940s, she said there has been a substantial increase in forms and other paper work.

"You don't just make one copy now. It must be multiple copies of everything you do," she said.

Vivacious and energetic, the veteran secretary stresses that "I have enjoyed working here and it makes me feel young being around students."

However, she does remember one day when she was not in a particularly good mood and a student began teasing her in the office. She told him, "If you don't leave, I will make a hole in the wall with you," she recalled laughingly.

A MEMBER of the local and state Illinois Association of Educational Personnel organizations, she has not joined a large number of groups but says, "I do like to play bingo occasionally."

She resides with her mother, Mrs. Zona McLinn; and sister, Mrs. Esther Hoffman. She has a niece living in Granite City, a nephew in Edwardsville and a great-nephew in Granite City.

Animal sales nixed

By BILL BAGBY
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — The city's Humane Department cannot sell animals for research purposes.

The City Council Tuesday night approved a resolution to prohibit the practice, also known as "pound seizure."

"THE COUNTY was having some problems with this and we decided to jump on this before it got to us," said Ervin DeRouse, city inspector.

"This will mean more dogs will have to be put to sleep," said Paul Derossett, city humane officer. "We will have to spend more time doing that than spending time on the streets collecting stray animals."

The resolution also made a plea for the adoption of animals from the pound.

"WE DO HAVE an adoption policy," Derossett said, "and we do our best to try to find a home for the animals."

However, he added, most people are interested in adopting pedigree animals rather than the street animals the pound normally collects.

Though the pound has been allowed to sell the animals, none have been sold recently.

IN JANUARY, the Madison County Board prohibited the practice of pound seizure. The decision was due in part to the efforts of the Madison County Coalition Against Pound Seizure, a countywide group of individuals and humane organizations opposed to the practice.

"Experimentation is not wrong if the animals are disposed of in a humane way," said Linda Irwin, public relations chairman of the local chapter of the Association for the Protection of Animals Inc.

New job for Schuler

By JACK C. VENTIMIGLIA

GRANITE CITY — Changing jobs again is former mayor Paul Schuler.

After losing his mayoral post in last April's election, on Thursday Schuler resigned his $25,000-per-year job as facility coordinator for regional sewage treatment with the Metro East Sanitary District. He starts a $37,600-per-year job on Monday as executive director of the Madison County Housing Authority.

As housing authority director, Schuler serves the county's 852 public housing tenants by making sure they have safe, adequate housing, said Linda Fulcher, the authority's acting director. Fulcher said she did not apply herself for the job and plans to resume her position as program supervisor when Schuler begins work.

"That's a much better job than he had here," said Shing Greathouse, executive director of the Metro East Sanitary District.

While with MESD, Schuler helped the plans for the regional sewage plant move forward. Greathouse said Schuler was responsible for coordinating efforts with a total of 13 mayors and supervisors on such matters as sewer rates, and he also helped collect delinquent sewer bills, Greathouse said.

As housing director, Schuler will replace Bert Hampton, whose contract was allowed to expire in December.

The post was given to Schuler on Feb. 19 by the Madison County Board of Commissioners.

MISS McLINN, as she is known to those at Madison High School, is counting the days to her retirement.

In an effort to make county and city voting precincts coincide, the City Council created three new precincts in Ward 6 at its Feb. 28 meeting. The city will have 25 voting precincts for the April 4 city and township election. A boundary change in Ward 8 completed the redistricting.

Mengele mystery far from resolved

WASHINGTON — The team of experts assigned to study the skeletal remains dug up in Brazil last year is far from unanimous in the confidence it expressed initially that the bones, skull and teeth were those of Dr. Josef Mengele, the Auschwitz "Angel of Death."

The team of pathologists and other forensic-medicine experts is hung up on one point that refuses to go away: the total absence of evidence of osteomyelitis, a serious bone marrow disease, in the remains. The only known, authentic medical record of Mengele, in his S.S. file dated 1938, states that he had suffered from the bone disease at about age 15.

Osteomyelitis, caused by infection, is readily treatable today with antibiotics. But these remedies were not known in the 1930s, when Mengele apparently had the disease. The treatment then was surgery: drilling into the bone to let the infected material drain out.

Even after 50 years, evidence of either the disease or the surgery, or both, would still be detectable. Yet none was found by the team of experts commissioned by the Justice Department last June to establish the identity of the remains.

The experts dealt with the osteomyelitis mystery in its preliminary report by simply ignoring it. The opinion — identifying the remains as Mengele's with "a reasonable scientific certainty" — was apparently unanimous, and no member of the team has publicly expressed doubt about the initial verdict.

But our associate Lucette Lagnado has learned that some are now seriously concerned about the lack of osteomyelitis evidence. One member, Dr. John Fitzpatrick of the Cook County Hospital in Chicago, did acknowledge publicly that if it were established through X-rays that Mengele had suffered from the disease, "we would have to change our tune."

Another expert, who requested anonymity, said if proof positive of osteomyelitis in Mengele's past were found, the whole investigation "would be thrown wide open."

The Justice Department's Nazi-hunting Office of Criminal Investigations was worried enough about the team's on-the-spot investigation last June that it subsequently sent a Smithsonian Institution anthropologist, Dr. Donald Ortner, to Brazil to do an independent study of the bones and X-rays of the remains. He was specifically told to look for evidence of osteomyelitis. He found none. Even those members of the team who are anxious to wrap up their assignment and publish a final report supporting the earlier verdict recognize the difficulty of the osteomyelitis factor. Their solution: Mengele was wrong about his affliction when he put it in his S.S. medical record in 1938, a decade after he claimed to have had the disease.

There are two choices: If the remains are Mengele's, the S.S. record must be wrong. If the S.S. record is correct, the remains in Brazil may not be Mengele's, and his death may be a hoax.

PROPAGANDA CAMPAIGN: At the Geneva summit meeting last November, U.S. Information Agency Director Charles Wick ran into his Soviet counterpart, Leonid Zamyatin, boss of Moscow's "international information" department. Wick reminded the Soviet official that he had never replied to a letter Wick sent him in January 1985.

The Russians apparently appreciated Wick's un diplomatic lectures. Zamyatin gave Wick the red carpet treatment throughout his stay in Moscow.

PINS & NEEDLES: President Reagan should be on the alert for sudden sharp pains. The reason: He may have invited a voodoo curse by assisting in the ouster of Jean-Claude "Baby Doc" Duvalier as president of Haiti.

Eight years ago, we reported that Duvalier's mother, Mama Doc, had put a voodoo hex on President Carter for constantly nagging her baby about human rights. And many years earlier, Duvalier's father, Papa Doc, cast a curse on President Kennedy.

The older generation has passed on to its dubious reward, but voodoo is still practiced in Haiti, and Baby Doc might have taken a precautionary black art with him into exile.

Venice seeking new businesses, jobs

I saw much potential in Venice when I first entered politics. We are geographically located in a prime area. Our access to rail, air, water and highway transportation is very unique.

We are somewhat limited, as a city, in land available. Yet, there is enough for any future industrial or commercial development.

We have had to rely on jobs outside our community, generally. Yet, we have had approximately 12 new businesses come into Venice in the past four years.

I had very high hopes of a distribution center locating here, but the unavailability of the desired land has seemingly thwarted that proposal. I am not saying that it is dead, but the distribution center plan was dealt a serious blow.

I am constantly at work in an attempt to get present businesses to expand. I do have visions and plans that would possibly bring development of the Kerr Island area. We are also inviting into the prospect of an incinerator being located in our area.

We have had a very extensive housing rehabilitation program here to improve our housing stock. Also, we have a good, sound demolition program in Venice that has gone far to eliminate blight and slum-like conditions. We have yet to develop strong enough interest from some citizens willing to participate as economic development catalysts.

I feel that many viable projects could emanate from their efforts and, with the help of the City Council and other governmental bodies, success would be certain.

The problem of surface water must be tackled on a regionwide basis, not only in Venice. There is not much one can do by oneself.

We are looking into this problem and various other aspects with area mayors at this time.

Solving the problem of surface drainage, thereby making the available ground more attractive and more feasible for development, could be salvation for our whole area.

This area has great accessibility, whether by water, highway, air or rail transportation, and this is a major point when prospective developers are looking for a central hub location.

I hope the Depot (Granite City Army Installation) problem that we've worked on so hard (transfer of warehouse property to permit establishment of an industrial park) will culminate favorably and become an asset to our area.

We can foresee some jobs, hopefully, whether in construction or other fields, with the prospect of some development at the Depot.

On hymns and reading for content

I sometimes have a lazy eye when it comes to picking up typos and spelling errors. It proved costly in college and embarrassing ever since my career began.

My wife has a simple explanation for my easy-going spelling habits. She thinks it may have something to do with the things I read.

Every night I try and read before going to sleep.

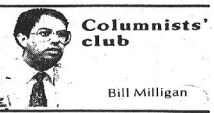

On the job, I usually read newspapers, press releases and legal documents. At home I choose to read literature; Medieval English literature, to be exact.

The following is an example of the stuff I choose to read on my own time. I'll translate it later.

Caedmon, the poet, composed a great deal of religious verse between A.D. 673 and 733. The nine lines given below are all of what survives that can be reasonably attributed to him.

Old English verse is impossible to write on today's typewriters. Three letters from Old English do not exist anymore. I have substituted modern letters and punctuation which may not coincide with scholarly adaptations.

The translation which follows is my understanding of the poem's meaning. Once again, scholarly studies of the poem may differ from mine.

Hard to believe it's the same language.
Before I translate, let me make my point.
If I let spelling bother me when I read poetry like this, I would never be able to understand it.

At the time this was written, no standardized spellings existed. Writing was almost exclusively restricted to the clergy.

Caedmon sang his poetry. His poetry survives only because it was transcribed by the Venerable Bede, monk of Jarrow, in what was then known as Northumbria. That area is in northern England.

To understand this poem, one must read for content. Caedmon's work is among the oldest literature in our language. We're fortunate to have it.

Newspapers are neither old, nor art, and I am by no means making excuses for poor spelling, since readers deserve the fewest possible distractions when reading a newspaper article. But what I am asking is that readers understand the pressure newspaper work under while developing their product.

Like everyone else, newspaper people like to know what people think of their work. When we make mistakes, we need to be told.

Those who are paid for hours or even on an occasional scholarly work cannot understand the pressure of having mere minutes to make a deadline. To compare a newspaper writer to the author of a scholarly dissertation is like comparing a MASH unit to Barnes Hospital. "It's easier to catch flies with honey," my mom used to say. Enough of that; here is my translation. It's your reward for having waded through all this.

CAEDMON'S HYMN

Now must we praise of heaven's kingdom the Keeper

Then the middle-enclosure of mankind the Protector.

For men, earth the Lord Almighty.

I took the poem from a reprint of Bede's The Ecclesiastical History of the English People, completed in 731 and republished by the Oxford University Press in 1973.

My next column will deal with the Canterbury Tales. I'm only kidding.

Ragsdale active Republican

To the Editor:

Dr. Edward Ragsdale, Madison County Republican chairman, a candidate for 21st District Republican state central committee, has brought leadership to the Republicans in Madison County.

We appreciate the energy, enthusiasm and skill he has used to promote the Republican philosophy.

He has taught us as our county chairman and leader never to be ashamed to be a Republican. He has promoted good partisan elections and brought to the voters highly qualified candidates for choice.

He holds open monthly committee meetings for any Republican interested in good government to attend.

Dr. Ragsdale has climbed the political ladder as a volunteer, then a precinct committeeman and now as county chairman and member of the state board of directors of county chairman.

He has given women an equal opportunity to run for elective offices as well as job opportunities. He is a tireless volunteer and encourages others to reach high potentials.

At all times he has championed the underdog, ever for a moment we lose faith in the Republican philosophy, we need only to remember a man like Dr. Ragsdale to come forth with kind, wise and sound judgment.

He really deserves the esteem and loyalty of all Republicans. He stands as a shining example of the Republican way of life.

Society, newspapers make progress

Journalism's past has its blotches, but only recently did I find that in the days of long ago this newspaper was also capable of printing questionable material in the area of race relations.

At first the story pointed out to me by fellow-newsman Bill Milligan seemed absurd, then offensive.

After a little reflection on how today's society might view the story; however, I was able to scrape from it a hint of redeeming social value in that the story serves as a line of demarcation to demonstrate how far journalism has progressed from Feb. 28, 1911.

The story also brings us back to the values of Bible-thumping, middle America in 1911. Not only were the races far more divided, but the moral code seemed more stringent.

As a society, we still have progress to make in unifying the various races and all of the ethnic backgrounds in this nation, but we have come a long way as reflected in this story from the front page of the Tuesday, Feb. 28, 1911 issue of the Granite City Press and Herald.

Jack Ventimiglia

Club gave a very formal reception at the club room Friday afternoon. Just how formal it was may be decided when it is learned that the one out-of-town guest, Miss Dodie Shue, a brunette of very striking color, was the only lady who received an invitation, and it is not known who sent her that one.

Nevertheless, Miss Jones, of 921 High Street, St. Louis, arrived in Granite City about one o'clock, and inquired the way to the club house. She was bedecked in the season's latest styles, and her dark complexion shone with the light of expectancy over the afternoon's event. But Dodie ran afoul of a strong limb of the law, and she was escorted to the city hall, instead of to the club house where she told her mission in Granite City. This was her first trip across the McKinley Bridge, and she was here to repay several calls by members of the club to her home on High Street. Although fifteen cents was the sum total of her pecuniary possessions, Dodie had a wealth of dark, curly hair, and when her wibegone expression showered by copious tears got to working slightly overtime on the members of the police force, she was informed that if she would tarry in Granite City just three minutes, and then tie away back to her home, she would be shown clemency.

Otherwise, she was informed, the members of the club, several of whom knew her well, she said, would be called upon to pay her fine.

"Who invited you over to the Independent Club?" (police chief) Hankins asked her.

"As was told to come to the club house this afternoon, and ah would be given lots of eats and drinks."

"Have you ever been here before?"

"No, Sah, ah nevah have, and so hep me, ah nevah am comin' back."

"Do you know many members of the club?"

"Several ob de membahs have called at mah home in St. Louis. Ah disremember the names ob de membahs, tho."

"Sho, now, Mistah Chief, won't you please let me go away? Just put me on de fast cub out ob Granite City, and ah won't nevah trouble about no Independent Club no mo."

"Ah sho am goin' back, back to old St. Louis. No mo Independent Club reccepsahns to mah!"

It is understood several members of the Independent Club spent nearly two hours Friday afternoon looking for their uninvited guest.

Officers of the club, when asked about the reception," stated they knew nothing about the negro's visit here. They declared they would make an investigation, and would expel the members who brought about the situation, if they could be learned. Other of the officers were of the opinion that someone had made the club the recipient of a rather poor out at joke.

We've come a long way from the days when a story would be written in that fashion. The events might be similar to those that could happen today, but the reporting of it would be less emphatic about the reputation of the woman, and would not go so far out of the way to demonstrate her race.

To me, that's a sign of journalism's progress and maybe society's.

The fire is said to have started at 6:57 a.m. when a space heater in one of the two adjoining homes malfunctioned. Residing in the house at 709 Jefferson was Dorothy Ford, and Edna Scidler lived in the house at 711 Jefferson. No injuries were reported. Nameoki still is hopeful on U.S. revenue

By JOAN PACE

While the Nameoki Township Board of Trustees remains concerned about the future of federal revenue sharing funds, members are hopeful the township will receive most of what they wanted this year.

"We probably will receive $25,000 in revenue sharing over the next two quarters, but funding for the third quarter, which would be due in October, is in doubt at this time," said Township Supervisor Harry Briggs during Monday night's board meeting. "If we could count on the full amount, it would come to $37,000."

Briggs said the final decision probably will not be known until July or August.

"At THIS TIME we don't want to get too excited about any cuts, since we just have to wait and see what Congress does," added Briggs.

Briggs said that while passage of the Gramm-Rudman-Hollings Act may drastically reduce funding, congressional proponents of federal revenue sharing are working to save the program.

Meanwhile, township residents are being asked to show their support by signing petitions urging continuation of shared revenue.

BRIGGS EXPECTS the petitions to be completed and mailed to senators and congressmen by the end of March.

In response to a letter received from the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce, the Township Board had pledged its efforts in helping with the 1986 areawide clean-up campaign.

Trustees indicated the need to appreciate and schedule necessary clean-up projects for the campaign, to be conducted April 26 through May 2.

ROAD COMMISSIONER Lee Adams said his department is scheduled to pick up discarded household items and tree limbs for township residents on April 1.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Rensing thanked Adams and his department for work done near their home, in a letter read at Monday night's meeting. The Rensings said they had a problem with water standing in the street near their home during the winter months for several years.

Commenting they realize storm-water drainage in the area is a problem, they said they appreciated the highway staff's efforts.

Endorsement planned in Congressional race

By JACK C. VENTIMIGLIA

GRANITE CITY — The trip to Washington last week by Mayor Von Dee Cruse included a visit with the 21st District's congressman, U.S. Rep. Mel Price, D-Belleville.

"The guy's as sharp as he's ever been," Cruse said of Price. The mayor said he was impressed with the congressman and the respect with which Price is treated in the nation's capitol.

Arthritis in his hands, and a foot infection that causes the congressman to shuffle, could make it appear Price is unable to do his job, but that is not the case, Cruse said. The congressman, he said, is still a capable leader.

Concerning the 21st District's Democratic Primary, Cruse left little doubt as to who he will endorse during a press conference tomorrow. The press conference will be held at City Hall on Monday at 3 p.m. In the primary, Price, 81, faces competition from Madison County Recorder of Deeds Ron Lucas, Madison County Assessor Pete Fields, and Steve Maragides, an administrative law judge with the Illinois Department of Revenue.

Price has the endorsement of Democratic party leaders in Madison and St. Clair counties. He has also been endorsed by some Illinois legislators, including Rep. Sam Wolf, D-Granite City, and Sen. Sam Vadalabene, D-Edwardsville.

Preparedness Week arrives

By VALERIE EVENDEN
Staff writer

One of the most furious and devastating quirks of nature is a tornado and Illinois has its share of such deadly and violent weather each year.

Gov. James R. Thompson is alerting the public to the start of the tornado season by declaring the week of Sunday, March 2, through Saturday, March 8, as Tornado Preparedness Week in Illinois.

GRANITE CITY Emergency Services and Disaster Agency (Civil Defense) again will be part of the annual statewide tornado drill, scheduled Tuesday, March 4.

Dick Erway, ESDA coordinator, said this week Granite City's network of warning sirens will be activated about 10 a.m. Tuesday when the local agency receives an official alert signal from the National Weather Service.

All Granite City public schools will participate in the drill, putting into practice emergency plans which call for students and faculty members to assemble in predetermined areas of the building.

EACH SCHOOL BUILDING has a tone-activated receiver linked to the Illinois State Police and a weather alert radio hooked into the National Weather Service network.

The Illinois Emergency Services, National Weather Service and the Illinois State Police, working together to combat the deadly effect of tornadoes through emergency planning, will be testing their communication links on a statewide basis Tuesday.

At the same time, many schools, hospitals and some public buildings throughout the state will exercise their tornado response plans.

ILLINOIS IS located at the northeast edge of the most tornado-prone region of the world, according to Erway.

An average of 25 tornadoes have swept through Illinois each year since 1950, with as many as 107 in 1974.

The Granite City area has experienced two destructive tornadoes in recent years and memories still linger for some residents, returning vividly when high winds and darkening skies move into the region.

MAY DAY 1983 will be long remembered by those who went through the onslaught of ultra powerful winds and rain that caused major damage to Crossroads Plaza Shopping Center and many homes in the Pontoon Road area and elsewhere.

The A.O. Smith Corp. plant sustained more than $1 million in damage. Granite City Bowl over $2 million and damage at the Central Hardware store was estimated at millions of dollars.

On April 3, 1981, there were 13 Granite City homes destroyed by a twister that also damaged more than 102 other residences, a church and local school buildings, leaving 21 persons injured and in excess of $1.5 million damage in its wake.

DESPITE WIDESPREAD destruction, the Quad-City area has been lucky. There was no loss of life.

in either disaster and those injured were not seriously impaired.

Unfortunately, we, in the St. Louis bistate metropolitan region, are residents of a five-state area known as "tornado alley."

The "alley" extends from Texas north through Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebraska and Missouri into Illinois, studies show.

The months of April, May and June account for more than 50 percent of all tornadoes since 1950. Fifteen twisters hit Illinois in 1985, one of the lowest totals in several years, and the pattern changed somewhat. Four tornadoes touched down in November, three in July and one in September.

A TORNADO'S great destructive power comes from the high, twisting velocity of its winds, which can churn at more than 300 miles per hour.

Most travel in a northeasterly direction and normally last four to five minutes. Occasionally, they come in bunches and can last up to 30 minutes or longer.

Residents are urged to listen to the radio when the skies look threatening, authorities said. The National Weather Service tracks all weather systems with sophisticated radar and is usually able to give adequate advance warning of violent weather approaching.

A TORNADO WATCH means the atmospheric conditions are such that tornadoes could develop.

A TORNADO WARNING means an actual funnel has been sighted in the area. Warnings are usually accompanied with a description of the speed and direction of travel of the funnel. In the Granite City area, the network of warning sirens is sounded at this point.

When a watch is issued, Quad-Citians should listen to broadcast advisories and be ready to take cover.

When a tornado warning is issued, immediate action can save lives. Stay away from windows, doors and outside walls.

Residents are urged to go to the basement or a place in the middle of the house, like a closet, bathroom or interior hall and get under something sturdy.

IN SCHOOL, students are urged to be calm and follow the directions of the teachers. Students should stay away from windows and from auditoriums and gymnasiums with wide roofs that could easily collapse. In shopping centers or very large buildings, persons should look for a predesignated shelter or a middle hallway on the lowest floor.

IN MOBILE HOMES or cars, authorities suggest, "Leave them and find shelter in a building."

Mobile home residents are especially vulnerable and should plan in advance where a family will seek shelter.

If there is no shelter nearby, persons exposed to an approaching tornado are advised to lie flat in the nearest ditch, ravine or culvert with their hands shielding their head.

Additional information about safety precautions may be obtained by calling the Granite City ESDA office at 877-3157.

Democrats run for attorney general

Oberman

Seeking to be the Democratic Party's candidate for the position of Illinois attorney general in the March 18 primary is Martin J. Oberman, 40, D-Chicago.

An attorney, Oberman has served the past 10 years as Chicago's 43rd Ward alderman. According to Oberman, during his tenure as an alderman his most significant work involved suits against corruption in Chicago's city government.

"The most significant of these suits," said Oberman, "were actions against Mayor Jane Byrne on withholding of public records and improper use of city funds."

The following are answers to issue-related questions asked of Oberman:

- Concerning public access to government records, he said the Illinois Freedom of Information Act is strong, but requires vigorous enforcement.

- The attorney general should do that for everyone," he said.

- Concerning expanding opinions of the attorney general's office to the public through the press, Oberman said official opinions are less important than what needs to be done — having the attorney general's office "act on complaints" from the press and public.

- "I would examine the operations of the regional offices to determine their effectiveness and I would staff them with professional and more attorneys where necessary," Oberman said of the 19 regional offices established by the present attorney general.

- "No," Oberman said, a person should not be allowed to hold more than one elected public office where not specifically allowable.

- Adequate funds are not available to clean up waste sites in Illinois, Oberman stated.

- "Indeed, the entire scope of the problem of toxic waste sites in Illinois remains unknown," he said. "The Illinois Environmental Protection Agency admits that what they have is a patchwork of information on toxic emissions into the land, air and water."

- "Especially as the federal government abdicates its responsibilities for protecting the environment, Illinois must become more aggressive in seeking funds from the federal level to monitor pollution and waste sites in our state."

Hartigan

Seeking to be the Democratic Party's candidate for the position of Illinois attorney general in the March 18 primary is the incumbent, Neil F. Hartigan, 47, D-Chicago.

Hartigan's background includes service as Illinois lieutenant governor. He serves as chairman of the Midwest Conference of the National Association of Attorney Generals.

Though announcing early in the running that he would run for governor, he dropped out when former U.S. Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson announced he would run for governor against the incumbent, James Thompson.

The following are answers to issue-related questions asked of Hartigan:

- According to Hartigan's statements in the Freedom of Information Act guide, "I will do my utmost to insure that the public's right to know is effectively and fully guaranteed."

- The FOIA was approved in 1984 during Hartigan's tenure. It has since been criticized by press advocates as limiting rather than facilitating public access to government information.

- Concerning legal opinions being expanded to help the press answer questions of public importance, Hartigan's office does not issue such opinions. Only state's attorneys and, in some cases, legislators are given legal opinions.

- Regarding the 19 regional offices established by Hartigan more than 18 months ago, Hartigan believes they make his office more available to the public. To date, 35,000 persons have reportedly used the 19 offices.

- No opinion was available on what Hartigan thinks of public officials being allowed to hold more than one elected public office.

- Concerning hazardous waste, Hartigan's position is he has a good record on fighting the problem. Through the Project Clean Sweep program, the state has collected $653,000 by prosecuting operators of landfills and unpermitted dumps.

- According to Hartigan, the record shows a task force he established produced the state's first comprehensive hazardous waste management policy created a strike force of lawyers to stop environmental law violations, and increased criminal penalties for environmental crimes.

Governor's race semi-bizarre

(State Capitol bureau)

SPRINGFIELD — Interesting and semi-bizarre things have been happening on the Illinois political front over the past few weeks.

In February we saw attempts by "psycho-historians" to put Abraham Lincoln on the couch. Now, it might be more interesting to analyze the psychological implications of recent statements and fulminations of Gov. "Immense James" Thompson and Adlai "I'm no Wimp" Stevenson III.

For example, Freud would probably have a field day with Thompson's recent messages urging Illinoisans to "dream along with me." The governor actually said that in a Chicago press conference, in what turned out to be a preview of his 1986 "state of the state" message.

HE PROCEEDED to draw a series of lines on a map of the state, dubbing them "corridors of opportunity."

In the manner of an advertising agency campaign, the governor dreamed down those corridors in his annual "state" speech Feb. 10.

Projected on a big screen over Thompson's head in the Illinois House chambers were slides of those lines faintly drawn on the state map. The governor described these Rorschach-like images as corridors of auto manufacturing and retooling, retail office, recreation/tourism, agribusiness, and energy/solid waste. All of these "corridors" were plotted along major highways.

CLOSER EXAMINATION of the corridors reveals the Metro East area appeared to be the hub, with Interstate 55 and 70 as the spokes of an "energy/solid waste corridor."

The energy part sounds okay, with the KinGas plant in East Alton and a proposed coal-gasification plant in Macoupin County as the "anchors."

The governor wasn't very clear on what the "solid waste" part meant, though.

We can only assume I-55 and I-70 are to be either lined with dumps, also known as landfills, or highway comfort stations. In either case, to put it crudely, perhaps this is the "Flush Illinois" portion of Thompson's "Build Illinois" program.

Yet, overall, "corridors of opportunity" is as good an ad campaign gimmick as any — although from an alliterative standpoint "pathways of potential" has a better ring to it.

AFTER ROAMING those corridors at length in his state-of-state

Two polling places may receive ramps.

By BILL MILLIGAN

GRANITE CITY — It will be easier for the handicapped to vote in Granite City if Madison County Community Development Coordinator Joe Parente's accessibility program gains local approval.

Two buildings in Granite City have been targeted for installation of handicapped access ramps. They are the Street Department building at 2301 Adams St. and the Lincoln Place Community Center on Niedringhaus Avenue.

Both were identified as buildings which lacked convenient access for physically handicapped persons in a survey of Madison County polling places last fall. The survey was done by County Board members in response to a state law requiring polling places to be accessible.

FIVE VOTING PLACES countywide were identified in the survey. Each will be fitted with an access ramp. Wheelchairs will be able to enter the buildings from the street level.

Portions of a Community Development Block Grant have been put aside for the project.

The grant will be used to pay for architectural and construction costs involved in the conversion project. "We're just in the planning stages now," Parente said. "We have no estimate of the total cost."

"EVERYTHING is subject to approval by the Park Board (which operates the community center) and the City (owner of the street office and garage)."

Parente's letter said an architect had completed preliminary drawings on the building. The Park Board approved the project Wednesday evening, pending receipt of plans and specifications.

"We wanted to do this a few years ago," said George Sykes, Park Board president. "Now, it looks like someone will be doing it for us."

Safe Street program in need of help

By BILL MILLIGAN
Staff Writer

GRANITE CITY — Emil Klug doesn't believe in waiting for things to happen. He wants to make school children's trip to school and back every day as safe as possible.

Recently, Klug has been finding more and more people believe in what he's trying to do.

Klug, juvenile protection committee chairman of the Granite City Area Council of PTAs, presented District 9 school officials with a four-point program aimed at making the streets safer for children.

District 9 officials unanimously endorsed the proposal Feb. 18.

"WE'RE HOPING this program will eliminate the possibility any child in the Granite City area will be abducted," Klug said. "We don't have a problem with abductions in Granite City but you never know what's going to happen tomorrow."

Klug wants to broaden an existing fingerprinting program to include public seminars, school assemblies and a "Safe Street" program.

A public forum is planned April 24 at the high school auditorium. The program will discuss a growing trend of child abduction in the United States and what can be done to protect youngsters.

Klug expects to ask those in attendance to volunteer for the "Safe Street" program.

The program is similar to one started in Belleville a year ago, Klug said.

RESIDENTS IN EVERY block of the city will be asked to display a "helping hand" symbol in their front windows. The sign would tell youngsters where help can be found in that block when they are away from home or school.

"We figure it will be used more to keep big kids from bullying little ones, or if one gets bitten by a dog," Klug said. "Abduction isn't a problem here. We'd like to keep it that way."

Klug said the rise in abductions is partly attributable to parents who have lost custody rights. An estimated 4,900 children are reported missing every day in the U.S., 1.8 million children are reported missing each year.

VOLUNTEERS for the program will be screened by the PTA, schools and police, Klug said.

Klug also proposes making use of the state-funded I-Search program to locate missing children.

The state would fund a local I-Search program that would photograph, fingerprint and compile vital information about school children. That information would be placed in a packet, and given to parents for use in an emergency.

In addition, law enforcement officials would visit schools, using a robot to promote safety habits among elementary children.

"THE ROBOT is an attention getter," Klug said. "They've found younger children pay more attention to it than they do to an adult who is giving them straight facts."

The PTA is hoping to find local sponsors who will help fund "Safe Street."

Klug plans to send letters inviting parents to participate in "Safe Street" to all District 9 parents. Postage will cost $200; it will cost an additional $65 to print the letter.

Klug said a similar program was dropped in Granite City 10 years ago. "There wasn't much interest in the program then," he said. "TV movies about child abuse and abduction have made people more aware of the problem."

'Communications' is topic of Granite City BPW club

Kathleen Clark, a training coordinator at Granite City Steel, spoke on the topic of "Communications" at the Granite City Business and Professional Women's dinner meeting.

She was introduced by Jeannie Homberger, program chairman, who noted Mrs. Clark is a three-month member of the organization. Mrs. Clark said, "Communication is important to everyone and is part of everyone's business, social and private lives. Without it people would get very little accomplished. However, communication is both a sender and receiver. In normal conversation, both the talker and listener are of equal importance."

She concluded by saying the best way to become a better listener and eliminate barriers is to listen with an open mind, be an active listener, and clearly and summarize what the speaker is saying. "If one becomes a better listener, he or she will become a better communicator," the speaker said.

President Becky Slate opened the session and, after the program, Rose Stern, membership chairman, conducted an initiation ceremony for new members Beverly Partney, Becky Jones informed members that Joy Caschetta, the Young Careerist candidate for the club was named runner-up in the District XIV speakoff.

The event was held at Our Lady of the Snows in Belleville in February. Barbara Marco, an Edwardsville attorney, won first place. Other participants were from Alton, Gateway and Highland.

The winner will advance to the Illinois Federation Speakoff in April. Other local members attending the event were Rose Stern, Hazel Rollins, Ramona Burnett and Mattie Pope, the candidate's mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Williams celebrate 50th anniversary

Former Granite City residents, Mr. and Mrs. Don Williams, now of Deltona, Fla., celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary on a cruise to the Hawaiian Islands. They were accompanied on the trip by their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Bell, of Granite City. The honorees also have three grandchildren and two

He worked for the Ludwig Music House in St. Louis, then moved to Deltona, Fla., where he was employed at Deltona Utilities for 15 years prior to his retirement. Mrs. Williams retired from Deltona Real Estate.

New state plan for handicapped

A proposed state plan concerning education of handicapped children has been submitted for public review and comment from March 3 to April 4, and two public hearings have been scheduled — for March 25 in Springfield and March 26 in Chicago.

Copies of the 1987-89 Illinois State Plan under the Education for All Handicapped Children Act of 1975, PL 94-142, and the Preschool Incentive Grant under Part B of that act will be available at the State Board offices, 100 N. First St., Springfield; 100 W. Randolph, Chicago; and 123 S. 10th, Mt. Vernon — and at all educational service regions in the state, including Edwardsville, and the three educational service centers in Cook County.

On March 25, the hearing will be held in Auditorium C, second floor, State Board Office, Springfield; on March 26, it will be held in the 14th floor conference room of the State of Illinois Center in Chicago. Both hearings will be conducted from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. Oral testimony should not exceed 10 minutes and must also be submitted in writing unless other arrangements are made. Persons wishing to testify should pre-register by calling 217-782-6601.

Presenters who need special accommodations, such as an interpreter or any equipment to facilitate a handicap, should make requests when pre-registering. Written testimony will also be accepted and may be sent to Jack Shook, Department of Special Education, Illinois State Board of Education, 100 N. First St., Springfield 62777 by March 21.

Oral and written testimony should address (1) the area of concern, citing the Annual Program Plan section, subsection(s) and page number; (2) the problem, stating concisely the problem or area of concern; and (3) comments or recommendations for changes.

The state plan outlines the policies and procedures for implementing PL 94-142 during 1987-89. The Preschool Incentive Grant provides funds specifically for special education services to handicapped children, birth through five years of age.

Among the basic tenets of the federal law endorsed by the State Board of Education are provisions requiring:

— A free, appropriate education for every handicapped child.

— Education in the least restrictive environment.

— An individualized education program for each handicapped child.

— State education agency supervision of all education programs for handicapped children.

— A continuing search to find handicapped children not currently being served.

— In-service training for all personnel working with handicapped children.

Gym bleachers to be improved

By BILL MILLIGAN
Staff Writer

GRANITE CITY — Improvement of 30-year-old gymnasium bleachers at the high school will begin this summer. The work will be done by the Carroll Seating Co. of St. Louis.

The Carroll Co. will replace bleachers on the main floor of the gymnasium with wooden bleachers.

THE NEW STANDS will be equipped with a motor which will aid workers who are erecting them or taking them down.

Those bleachers seat 1,283. The new bleachers will seat 1,450, according to Ron Landman, buildings and grounds director.

The new bleachers will cost $79,900.

PARTS FROM the old bleachers will be used to repair those in the gymnasium balcony.

Increased attendance at high school basketball games brought the bleachers under scrutiny after one section buckled, trapping a woman's leg, during a Jan. 3 home game.

Since that time, the bleachers have been locked in place and reinforced with wooden braces.

TWO ITEMS governing transportation of students in private automobiles to and from extracurricular activities have been referred to the school district's insurance carrier for alternative suggestions.

Insurance carriers have advised the board not to allow use of private vehicles to transport students to school activities.

The board has approved a $1,395 bid for a security alarm system at Niedringhaus School. The school was vandalized Dec. 31.

The Niedringhaus PTA offered to donate half the money to install the alarm system. The system will be installed by the Mississippi Valley Alarm Co. of Belleville.

Exiled

IN SOUTH AFRICA, Donald Woods is not welcome. The former editor of The Daily Dispatch (third from right) is anti-apartheid. He discusses his experiences with SIUE mass communication students at a seminar that included, at right, Jim Corey of Granite City. At the time of his escape, Woods was under arrest for publishing details of the murder by State Security Police of Steve Biko, a young black leader.

Chancellor may be voted on March 13

A new chancellor could be named by the Southern Illinois University Board of Trustees at its next meeting March 13, Chairman Harris Rowe said Monday.

The date will be "strenuous to meet, but I'm still hopeful," Rowe said. His remarks followed a weekend of intensive interviewing of four finalists for the post, vacated by Kenneth "Buzz" Shaw earlier this year.

The board interviewed each finalist at least two hours, as did an advisory committee composed of faculty, staff and students from both the Edwardsville and Carbondale campuses.

The board and committee met at the Marriott Hotel near Lambert-St. Louis International Airport Friday through Sunday.

John Meisel, chairman of the advisory committee, said the finalists "were overall high quality. We would have been happy with any of them."

So far, John H. Keiser, president of Boise State University in Boise, Idaho, has been confirmed as a finalist. He has been president since 1978 and previously was acting president of Sangamon State University in Illinois.

Keiser, 49, is a native of Mount Olive. He has a bachelor's degree in education from Eastern Illinois University and graduate degrees in history from Northwestern University.

His salary is $61,000 plus a $7,800 housing allowance annually, his staff said. Shaw's salary was $101,000. He is now president of the University of Wisconsin.

Trustees earlier projected naming a new chancellor by April 15. Rowe said the process was accelerated because the trustees and committee were able to interview the finalists in a single weekend. Meisel said use of a consultant also helped speed the search.

Final selection of a chancellor rests with the trustees, though they will take into account findings by the advisory committee. Rowe said he will gather additional information on the finalists and check more references before the next board meeting.

One of the finalists lives in Illinois, but none is from SIU, Rowe said.

District 9 revises field trip policy

GRANITE CITY — The school board has changed several policies dealing with conferences, meetings and field trips.

The board revised its policy on conferences and meetings to allow staff members to attend meetings within a 325-mile radius of Granite City with approval of the school superintendent.

The previous policy allowed staff members to attend meetings within 150 miles with superintendent approval. Distances greater than that needed school board approval.

The mileage figure also was changed in the board's policy on field trips. Field trips were restricted to a 35-mile radius under the old policy. That radius was increased to 50 miles by recent board action. Field trips that go beyond that range must receive prior school board approval.

GC hearing on needs of older women planned

The Task Force on the Status of Older Women, in cooperation with the Illinois Council on Aging, will hold two area public hearings to help determine the special needs of older women.

The meetings are scheduled for Tuesday, March 4, from 9 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. at the East St. Louis Township Senior Citizens Center, 6755 State St., and Monday, March 10, from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. at the Granite City Township Hall, 2060 Delmar ave.

Sister Julia Hulskamp of Catholic Urban Programs, East St. Louis, heads the 28-member task force. Two hearings have been held, in Chicago and Springfield, with others scheduled throughout the state.

Eleanor Wooten of East St. Louis, a member of the Illinois Council on Aging, and Elma Hoover of Granite City, a Task Force member, will chair the meetings in their respective communities.

Hulskamp said, "The speakers in this area will focus on three special areas of concern to older women — health services, economic security and housing."

"In addition to hearing first-hand from older women, the task force also looks forward to hearing from area health care providers, governmental officials, women's groups, social service agencies, and representatives of the aging network."

"The Task Force and the Illinois

Council on Aging believe it is different to grow older as a woman than as a man," she said.

"Women are more likely than men to live longer, live alone, live in near-poverty, have inadequate Social Security and pension benefits, have inadequate housing and health care, and be more likely to be caregivers."

"In Illinois there are 1.2 million persons 65 or older. Of this number, 61 percent are women (768,460). Life expectancy of women in Illinois is 78 years, almost eight years longer than men. Because women live longer, their financial, health and housing needs are extended."

Hulskamp said.

"By outlining the differences involved in growing older as a woman than as a man, the Illinois Council on Aging through the Task Force on Older Women is attempting to call attention to the special needs experienced by older women."

"In a society in which the older population continues to expand, it is imperative that all Illinois recognize that these needs do exist and should be addressed."

A report on the testimony along with the task force recommendations will be submitted to the governor in May. Older Americans' Month. Copies will be forwarded to the Department on Aging, General Assembly, Illinois Congressional delegation and interested groups.

Questions, challenges of Medicare program

Imagine taking a 1,000-piece picture puzzle where half of the pieces are missing and you don't have a picture to work from as a reference for solving the puzzle. That's about the way the Medicare program has been over the years, and it has been confounded each year when the federal government mixes up the pieces, adding some and taking away others.

For those of you already age 65 and trying to make sense out of the program so that you can be reimbursed at some level, or trying to understand what is covered and what is not, do not feel alone; the program has been, as depicted, a puzzle in the main. For those of you about to enter the program, do not despair — but we provide this alert so that you start your studying and planning early.

Consider this survey — albeit not very scientific — which we just completed. We talked with a score of communications practitioners in government — press secretaries to congressmen and in government agencies — and two-thirds of them identified Medicare as being their biggest challenge for understanding themselves and in communicating to constituents.

Medicare was created as a "panacea" in meeting the healthcare costs of the elderly. That was the legislative intent in the concept that was to provide 80 percent of medical costs for covered adults, age 65 and older. Perhaps it was too simple and therefore effective in intent and coverage, because during the consideration and debate in Congress the bill and the program became something else.

Senior companions sought, paid for BAC service program

Belleville Area College's Program for Older Persons is offering a Senior Companion Program for low-income persons 60 years of age and older to serve the Quad-City Area. Persons who qualify on age and income are being asked to volunteer 20 hours per week for a stipend rate of $2.20 per hour and are reimbursed for out-of-pocket expense for travel and meals while volunteering for the program.

The yearly income guidelines are: one person $6,225, two persons

Mainly for Seniors

Certain medical lobbying groups wanted "blank check" coverage for their professionals and "no check or coverage" for other types of medical practitioners with whom they disagreed. So the ax fell, cutting off coverage in many areas of reputable medicine, and the lobbying groups dropped the ax again, cutting off coverage for any "wellness" programs or preventive health care. Acute hospital care was endorsed and other remedial methods were discouraged by un-funding.

The blank check became larger and larger through the years, as senior citizen medical costs rose from under $500 in the first year to more than $2,000 on the average in recent years. As the costs increased the administration of Medicare and Congress looked to the senior citizens covered to pay more of the bill. In the past five years Medicare actually funded less than 40 percent of senior citizen medical bills — as deductibles, co-payments and premiums were increased.

The program was getting out of hand because the federal government had built no real, effective controls into the system. A few, token perpetrators of the most outlandish frauds were prosecuted. But basically the system was covering less and less while the cost was increasing rampantly.

A recognition that perhaps there was a better way to operate the program led to new changes, the most dramatic in Medicare's history: More home care would be covered, hospitals would be paid on a schedule basis rather than a percentage of whatever they billed, and more. And we are in the throes of those changes now.

There are five major flaws in the new approach, just as in the older approach, so that senior citizen patients are being discharged from hospitals when in need of more care because the flat, funding allotment has been used up for the specific procedure or illness. So there are horror stories most everywhere — because the "right" operation of the system still is not in place.

We can project yet another year of changes in the Medicare system and some senior citizens will get caught in the middle of the muddle, and there will be un-funding and short-funding in some areas, and perhaps too much funding in others. But this is how government tends to work, perhaps by non-coordinated committees that do not look to the real intent of need, but instead to the voices and causes of self-interest.

Will Medicare be solved? We bet it will at some future time, but not in 1986, because it is another election year.

What can you do if you're covered by Medicare? Retain your sanity at all costs, document and file your medical costs and claims, and hope for the best. If you want to argue with a Medicare reimbursement, know that you can do so.

If you are not yet eligible for Medicare, start reading up on it now, so that you know what to anticipate and can get organized to deal with the program.

One of the best briefings we've seen anywhere on the new changes and operation of Medicare has been prepared by the U.S. Senate Special Committee on Aging, a report titled "Healthy and Wise." U.S. Sen. Pete Wilson, R-Calif., has offered readers of this column copies of the special report free of charge. Sen. Wilson is a member of the Special Committee on Aging, and is currently holding hearings on the Medicare program. For a copy of the special report, write: "Healthy and Wise," U.S. Sen. Pete Wilson, 720 Hart Senate Office Building, Washington, DC 20510.

One of the senator's tips might be the first key in solving the Medicare challenge: "Stay healthy!"

letters, reading, helping to prepare light meals, encouraging an interest in good hygiene, helping with a prescribed physical therapy program, assisting in home management, developing social contacts and shopping.

A spokesman said, "It is an important program to the clients who are given the companion. The monetary gain received by senior companions does not affect their public aid, Social Security, Medicaid, food stamps or other benefits and does not have to be filed as income on their income tax."

In addition to financial assistance, they are given the opportunity to be of service to those who are less fortunate, giving the senior companion a new sense of meaningfulness in their lives."

Applications are being taken for training to be held on March 5 and 6 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Programs and Services for Older Persons office (old City of Merit School), 22nd and Iowa streets, Granite City. Persons interested may contact Jerri Casson at 876-3223.

A REMINDER FROM THE LAW TODAY
At a recent hearing before a panel of United States senators, numerous witnesses from insurance companies, business and government blamed the cost of insurance on courts and juries. Typical of the testimony given was that of the president of the American Bus Association, who said that "the constant expansion of the definition of liability by judges and large awards by juries are major causes of the problem." What does all this mean? It means simply that you, the ordinary citizen who sits on juries, are being blamed for the problems of big business and insurance. Perhaps those people who are willing to place the blame for their own woes on you would do well to heed the wisdom of the founding fathers, who saw fit to include the right to trial by jury in the Bill of Rights. After all, wouldn't you rather entrust the protection of your rights to those people who wrote our Constitution, and not to those whose primary goal is to make a profit?
We will be discussing this and other topics on Tuesday night's program.

He was no angel

HOLLYWOOD — "We discarded women must stick together," winked Pamela Mason about her self and Nettie McQueen Toffel (both Pamela and Nettie were "discarded" by their late husbands, James Mason and Steve McQueen).

Pamela and her daughter Portland organized a soiree honoring Nettie upon the publication of her memoir, "My Husband, My Friend," a riveting read about Steve McQueen, written from the heart but not a soupy puff piece.

(Steve, sad to say, was a wife beater, drug user and philanderer; another biography, "McQueen: The Untold Story of a Bad Boy in Hollywood," by journalist Penina Spiegel, claims Steve was obsessed by a terror of homosexuality, with a penchant for group sex.)

Congratulating Nettie at Pamela's soiree were Ginny and Hank Mancini, Michelle Phillips, Ruth and Milton Berle, Olavie Martin who was wed to the late Ross Martin, Suzanne Pleshette and husband Tommy Gallagher, Jayne Meadows, Penny and Dick Crenna, Esther Williams and her best friend Ed Bell, who plunked himself into an easy chair and began reading the copy of Nettie's book that had been on the grand piano.

"Have you noticed how many people here are writing books?" asked John Clark, adding that he and his wife Lynn Redgrave were about to embark on one, also that his mother-in-law Rachel Kempson was in the midst of her memoir about her late husband Sir Michael Redgrave (Rachel Kempson may be seen these days as Lady Beifield in "Out of Africa"), and that Portland Mason was working on a book about her distinguished actor father James. Jill Ireland added that her book, "Without a Net," about Jill's quest of cancer, will be published this fall.

Dennis Stein, who'd been Elizabeth Taylor's companion and fiancé for about six months, chuckled "over all the press that we stirred up."

An early arrival at Pamela Mason's was Stewart Granger, who recently delivered a feisty interview to the London Sunday Express, tagging Robert De Niro, Dustin Hoffman, Al Pacino, Robert Redford as "midgets, all of them."

OPENINGS

"THE DELTA FORCE" (R) — Chuck Norris and Lee Marvin team to lead an elite anti-terrorist squadron to rescue a hijacked aircraft from Arab fanatics, in another gung-ho action drama. The grab-that-check cast includes Martin Balsam, Shelley Winters, George Kennedy, Joey Bishop, Lainie Kazan, Robert Forster, Hanna Schygulla, Susan Strasberg, Bo Svenson and Robert Vaughn. Directed, in his debut, by producer Menahem Golan.

"HEY THERE, IT'S YOGI BEAR" (G) — Yogi Bear and Boo-Boo join forces once again to steal picnic baskets and upset Ranger Smith in this animated feature film. Voices by Daws Butler and Don Messick. Directed by William Hanna and Joseph Barbera.

"LA CAGE AUX FOLLES 3 (THE WEDDING)" (PG-13) — Ugo Tognazzi and Michel Serrault camp around as the gay old lesbians who must get married and produce a child within 18 months, to inherit a large sum of money. It's a sequel to a sequel to a hit. Directed by Georges Lautner.

"QUICKSILVER" (PG) — Kevin Bacon ("Footloose," "Diner") stars as a trading exchange whiz who loses his pile and becomes an urban bicycle messenger, in this action drama powered by cycles and music. With Jami Gertz and Paul Rodriguez. Written and directed by Tom Donnelly.

"WHEN FATHER WAS AWAY ON BUSINESS" (R) Excellent — It keeps getting better and better, until there's a payoff family supper scene as emotionally great as any ever filmed. Set in the Yugoslavia of the early, anti-Stalinist 50s, Emir Kusturica's film is about a family surviving its many problems: political betrayal by an in-law, arrest, hard labor, too much drinking and wenching, and the persistently sleep-walking of the youngest son, played by an enchantingly apt child actor named Moreno Bartoli. This slice of life is seldom sappy, and we come to really relate these people; their imperfections are part of their appeal. It won the top award last year at Cannes. With, as the parents, Miki Manojlovic and Mirjana Karandjovic.

"WILDCATS" (R) — Goldie

Hawn stars as a teacher who becomes a football coach at the roughest high school in town, in a comedy with James Keach, Swosie Kurtz, Nipsey Russell, Bruce McGill, M. Emmet Walsh, Mykel T. Williamson and Nick Corri. Directed by Michael ("The Candidate") Ritchie.

RECENT RELEASES

"THE BEST OF TIMES" (PG-13) Good — This foxy, affectionate comedy about small-town life and American sports mania stars Robin Williams in a payday role as a nebbishy banker who once dropped the ball at the big football game and now craves a second chance. Kurt Russell is the former gridiron star reduced to working on vans, and Pamela Reed and Holly Falane also have fine, funny licks as the wives. Director Roger Spottiswoode finally gets a little cute, but the movie is nearly all strong, and there's a dinner-party scene (with a line about acid rain) that is a classic. This is Williams' best straight comedy. With Donald Moffat; R.G. Armstrong.

"BRAZIL" (R) Excellent — A grand visual extravaganza, which by romping creative excess turns the nearly spent theme of Kafka-Orwellian warning about our engulfing technoculture into a wild dark carnival. Jonathan Pryce plays the English bureaucrat who rebels against the octopus state, in flighty erotic dreams and then in life (though they overlap entrancingly). Former Monty Pythonite Terry Gilliam directed with audacious control over all his eye-boggling elements, and the spirited cast (Michael Palin, Ian Holm; Robert De Niro, Kim Griest, Bob Hoskins) delivers zinging comic chills. Tom Stoppard helped with the script, which might have used a little more work, but when you come out of this movie you've really seen something. The use of the old swooping, purring song "Brazil" is inspired, and so is much else.

Funds released for I-255

About $22 million in federal funds toward completion of the last section of Interstate 255 in Madison County has been released by the U.S. Department of Transportation.

Gov. James Thompson was told by U.S. Transportation Secretary Elizabeth Dole she was releasing the interstate discretionary funds.

Thompson said the Illinois Department of Transportation has not yet had time to fully evaluate the impact of the added funds on the expected completion date of I-255, but the new money should advance the schedule "significantly."

All five of the I-255 projects for which the funding was received were already included in the current state highway plan to at least be started by the end of fiscal 1986 on June 30.

The projects and the amounts of federal funding released are:
• $3,028,542 for earthwork and construction at the intersection where I-255 meets I-270 near Glen Carbon.

• $5,851,025 for an overpass bridging the Norfolk & Western Railroad and Schoolhouse Creek.

• $4,775,312 for an overpass on Route 162 over the Chicago North Western Railroad and Norfolk & Western Railroad tracks.

• $3,168,247 for reconstruction of Route 157 over I-270.

$208,000 for traffic signals at Collinsville Road, a project required by the construction of the Interstate.

The state Transportation Department's five-year plan projects completion of I-255 to I-270, south of Edwardsville, in late 1989.

The segment from the Mississippi River at the Jefferson Barracks Bridge is open, with the next five miles from I-64 to I-55/70 in Collinsville slated to be finished by late this year. The last six miles of I-255 from I-55/70 to I-270 are scheduled to be done over the next three years.

Federal officials also released $7,949,788 for construction of the eastbound Jefferson Barracks Bridge over the Mississippi River between Monroe County and Missouri.

The westbound bridge is open and currently used as a two-way structure. The new bridge, a joint Illinois-Missouri project, had not been slated to be done this year in the current Illinois highway plan.

Insurance topic of retired employees

Lawrence Hengehold, president of the local chapter of National Association of Retired Federal Employees (NARFE) presented a legislative committee report at the monthly meeting.

He said that although President Ronald Reagan was expected to sign the bill, he vetoed legislation that would have, among other provisions, allowed retirees to share in health insurance rebates.

The bill, which contained some acceptable measures to the president, was vetoed by him at the last minute because it reportedly would also have raised the government's share of the federal employees health insurance program, the speaker said.

During the meeting Elmer Ebrecht submitted the name of Alex Duccini for consideration to represent NARFE Chapter 1067 at the state convention in Mount Vernon in May. The national convention will be held in Reno, Nev., in September.

Service Officer Georgina McMillan referred to the several days' delay experienced by some federal retirees in receiving checks dated Feb. 1. She urged members to consider the direct-deposit method of check delivery.

The next meeting will be at 11:30 a.m. March 10 at Charlie's Restaurant.

Defeat Collinsville

Warriors are regional champs

By GREGG OCHOA
Executive Sports Editor

COLLINSVILLE — Granite City can play any style you want.

Afraid of their running game and want to use stalling tactics to slow down the area's top offense, Granite City will play with you. Try to make them crack at the line, forget it.

Collinsville tried all that here Friday night, but Granite City held together and edged the Kahoks 55-53 to win the Collinsville Class AA regional championship at Fletcher Gymnasium.

The win, the Warriors fourth this season over the Kahoks, pushed Granite City's record to 24-3. Collinsville bows out at 13-14.

Granite City will meet Belleville West, a 62-47 upset winner over Mascoutah, Wednesday in the sectional semifinals at East St. Louis. Granite City has beaten West two times this season.

In other regional games, Bethalto upset Alton 56-54 and Lincoln beat O'Fallon 51-46.

It may not have been the prettiest of wins, but Coach Don Deterding will take it.

"Tonight, they did the things they needed to do to win," said the Warrior coach, who earned his third regional championship at Granite City (1971, 1985, 1986) and his seventh overall.

"You can go right down the line and everyone of the starters did something that was a part of this win, whether it was a key basket, a rebound, a steal or a free throw."

COLLINSVILLE: Conway 8, Biggs 7, Range 12, Stephens 11, Barberis 12, Sherry, FG-2, FT-11

GRANITE CITY: Gray 12, T. Hogan 2, Taylor 8, J. Hogan 18, Veizer 15, FG-19, FT-17

It was two free throws from Tim Hogan, an honorable mention all-state player, with :22 seconds left that provided the margin of victory.

"I wasn't thinking about anything in particular, I was just trying to relax up there," Hogan said.

Ironically, the foul shots were Hogan's only points of the game. The Kahoks held him in check for most of the evening. In fact, Hogan only took two shots in the second half.

"They used a box-and-one. It got to me and I didn't know where to go," said Hogan, who was averaging 20 points a game.

But the junior guard knew what to do with the ball when he stepped up to the line. And, so did his teammates.

Granite City hit 8 of 10 foul shots in the game's final four minutes. On the night, the Warriors were 17 of 24 from the line.

Jamie Hogan led the offense with 18 points. He was one of three Warriors to crack double figures. Chris Veizer added 15 and Joe Gray 12 points.

Jamie Hogan's 18 points snapped a personal slump for the junior forward.

"It feels good, but I didn't think I shot too well," said Hogan who was 6 for 13 from the floor. He also grabbed five rebounds.

"I couldn't figure out what I was doing wrong," Hogan said of the slump. "I started going through my mechanics and for a shooter that's bad. I lost my confidence, but coach Deterding told me just to relax."

Said Deterding, "This guy's been down on himself a lot lately, but I want to tell you he played a great game tonight."

Granite City beat Collinsville despite a 19 for 40 (47 percent) performance from the field.

"That just wasn't our team out there tonight," said Joe Gray who snatched one of the nets after it was cut down.

"You could tell we weren't hitting, but we just stuck with it and gave it 110 percent. There's no way we wanted to lose to Collinsville."

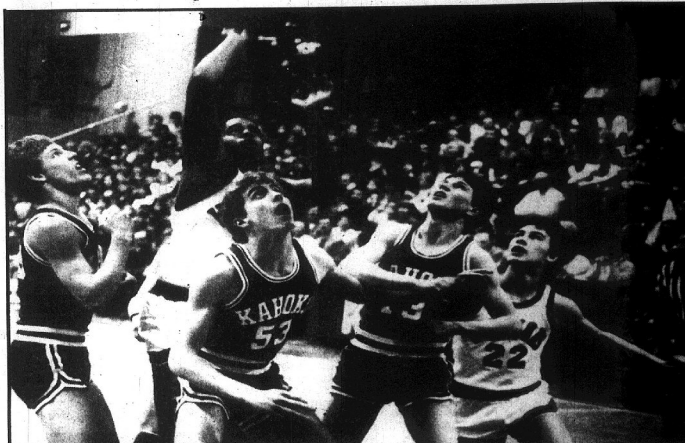

The Kahoks, however, played Granite City tough. In fact, the Warriors found themselves trailing as early as the second quarter.

Granite City led just three times in the game. The Warriors took the lead for good at 45-43 with 4:14 remaining in the game on two free throws by Jamie Hogan.

But as is the case with most all Granite City Collinsville games, it was not without some drama.

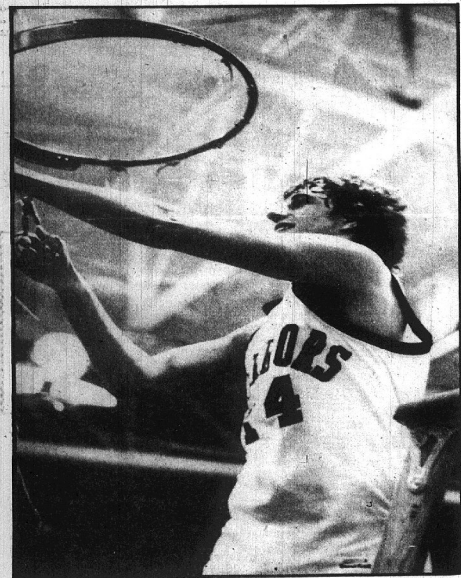

"It's a great rivalry," said Tim Hogan. "Collinsville always plays us tough no matter what the records are."

Devils going to Super-Sectional

VANDALLA — As is becoming their custom, the Venice Red Devils came flying into the third quarter and overcame the (Trenton) Westlin Warriors here Friday night to win the Vandalla Class A Sectional 50-45.

The Devils, in a sluggish first half, trailed 24-18 at the intermission. But they came out in high gear after moving Jesse Hall to guard and scored 24 points in the third quarter alone to take a 42-35 lead into the final quarter.

The Devils made only one field goal in the fourth quarter, when Hall, who had 22 points, got a slam dunk after the Devils had held the ball for almost 90 seconds early in the quarter. But Venice made 6 of 10 free throws down the stretch and the Warriors, who ended their season at 23-5, could only make 4 of 14 shots in the final period as the Devils won their 14th game in a row.

Venice, now 25-5, advances to the Charleston Super-Sectional on Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at Lantz Gym on the campus of Eastern Illinois University. Their likely opponent, pending the outcome of Friday night's sectional championship game at Newton, was the Teutopolis Wooden Shoes, at 28-0 the top-rated Class A team in the state.

The Devils led 12-6 after one quarter as Hall scored 8 points, but trailed 24-18 at the half as Doug Mueller, a 6-2 forward, got 12 of his team-leading 18 points in the opening half for the Warriors.

But Hall and Ed Ware sparked the Devils in the second half as Ware added 12 points, most of them on outside jump shots, to Hall's 22.

Complete details on Friday's win will appear in Wednesday's Journal.

Super-Sectional tickets at board office

Because of the school holiday for Casimir Pulaski's birthday tomorrow, tickets for the Venice Red Devils' Super-Sectional game at Charleston tomorrow night will be on sale Monday and Tuesday at the Venice School Board offices, 7th and Broadway in Venice.

Tickets will be on sale from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Monday and again from 7:30 a.m. to 10 a.m. at the office of Robert Vickers, superintendent of schools.

Stars ousted by Dutchmen

By DAVE WHALEY
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Terry Collins said the problem all year long had been ball handling. So the key sequence that ended the Stars' season Thursday night naturally involved — what else — shaky ball handling.

Despite having only six players in uniform, Granite City Campus had battled on even terms with the Belleville Area College Dutchmen in the semifinals of the National Junior College Athletic Association Region 24, Section 3 Tournament.

They had fought back to tie the score midway through the second half. But three consecutive steals and fast break baskets gave the Dutchmen nine quick points and boosted them to a 76-45 win over the Stars.

Granite City ended its season at 13-17, while BAC advanced to Saturday afternoon's sectional championship game against Kaskaskia. The winner advanced to the Region 24 finals next weekend at Eastern Illinois University.

The Stars were left shorthanded because Perry Jones, the leading scorer with 16.5 PPG, was suspended by Collins for disciplinary reasons. Andy Lyde, a freshman transfer who came to GCC for the second semester, was ineligible for postseason play because he arrived on campus only for the second half of the season.

But Collins wouldn't use that as an excuse. "I don't want to dwell on that," he said. "We just got beat. The guys we had out there played hard, but we always play hard. The thing that got us was the thing that has been our Achilles Heel, ball handling. We have trouble with that even when we have 10 players available."

Trailing 31-28 at halftime, the Stars fought back and finally tied the game with 10:23 left on 16 free throws by Al Johnson. Joe Champlay put BAC back ahead with a bucket, but Jeff Gray tied the game again on a long jump shot.

SCORING		31	46	77

BAC: Tisdale 17, Champlay 16, Bellinger 15, Myers 14, Johnson 9, Moore 4, Kohns 2, FG 30, FT 17, PF 13.
GCC: Pieper 18, Johnson 14, Robinson 14, Gray 11, Hellmer 8, FG 30, FT 5, PF 19.

Champlay again countered to put the Dutchmen up 49-47, then BAC put the heat on. Tim Viers stole the ball at midcourt and went in for a layup. Viers again stole the ball seconds later and passed to Champlay for a layup. Then John Tisdale picked up an errant GCC pass and went in for a layup and was fouled. He converted the 3-point play, and the Dutchmen had gone from a tie to a 54-47 lead in just over a minute.

"They sure got the steals there when they ran off that string," Collins said. "That's been our biggest weakness."

Gray, who got off to a slow start, warmed up in the second half and hit four straight outside shots, but the Stars never again got closer than 5 points. BAC paraded to the foul line 16 times in the last five minutes and made nine of the free throws to keep the Stars away.

Granite City jumped to a 4-0 lead on baskets by Jeff Pieper and Mike Hellmer, and the game was tied 6-6, but after that BAC led the entire way.

The Dutchmen, 18-13 going into the game with Kaskaskia, got balanced scoring from their top four players. Tisdale, at times showing the scoring touch of Wayman Tisdale, had 17 points. Champlay had 16, Odie Bellinger 15 and Jeff Myers 14.

Having Myers back helped them," Collins said. "He had been out with an injury and they had lost some games. This was his first game back and they won."

For the Stars, Pieper led the way with 18 points, while Kirt Robinson and Johnson each added 14 and Gray pumped in 11. Hellmer added 8 points. Gray was the only starter not to play all 40 minutes, only because he fouled out with 29 seconds left. Randy Feltmeyer was the only player available on the bench.

Both teams had 30 field goals on the night (GCC was 30 of 61, 49 percent; BAC was 30 of 52, 58 percent), but the Dutchmen cashed in on 17 of 26 free throw attempts (65 percent) compared to only 5 of 8 for the Stars.

SIU thinks playoffs after 90-87 triumph

By AL BARNES

EDWARDSVILLE — A balanced scoring attack proved to be more effective than that of one or two men when it comes to winning basketball games Wednesday.

The Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville Cougars rallied down the stretch to tip the Screaming Eagles of Southern Indiana 90-87 to put SIUE in a good position to go to the Great Lakes Regional of the NCAA Division II Tournament.

It was a case of "must win" for both teams going into the game as they were both fighting for the same spot in the regional to be held at Wright State in Dayton, Ohio, this weekend. The win was the Cougars' 14th at home without a loss this year and improved Larry Graham's team's record to 21-6, the best in school history. The Eagles fell to 18-9.

The Cougars' balanced attack, in which four starters — John Edwards, Kenny Stanley, Jimmy Jappa and Anthony Webster — each racked up 18 points, gave SIUE the decision over two sensational shooting stars from Southern Indiana.

The dazzling pair were little Stephen Jackson, who poured in 29 points, mostly from long range, and 6-9 Julian Hall, who had 20. Another Jackson, Andre, in relation to Stephen, chipped in with 16 in the losing effort.

It was the deadly outside shooting by Stephen Jackson which rocked the Cougars as the visitors led throughout the first half by as many as 10 points two different times. The Cougars battled back to cut the halftime deficit to two points, 41-39.

In the second half, the lead went back and forth until Edwards coolly made two free throws to put SIUE in front to stay, 65-64, with eight minutes to play.

Dwight Newsome played a key role in the second-half surge. He entered the game with 15 minutes to go and, with the Eagles keying on Edwards and Webster, he contributed 8 crucial points. Cool-as-ice Kenny Stanley of Madison hit 6 of 7 free throws down the stretch to hold off the Eagles.

The Jackson boys were largely responsible for Southern Indiana's 57.1 shooting in the first half. Stephen hit 7 of 9 attempts while Andre made 5 of 5.

Another good crowd of 1,371 saw the game, which was a real thriller. The Cougars will close out the regular season Monday at Vandalia Gym against St. Joseph of Indiana in a 7:35 p.m. game. It will be the first meeting ever between the two schools.

defenses," said Deterding. "We went into a half-court trap we had been successful with that before."

Things tightened up and Granite City pulled even (43-43) on baskets by Jamie Hogan and Gray. In the next sequence, Gray block a shot and after a Kahok turnover Jamie Hogan sank two free throws.

Collinsville's Marty Conway closed the gap to two (51-49) with a steal and layup. But with 39 seconds left Gray sank two more free throws for a four-point Granite City lead.

"I was so pumped up," said Gray. "There was no way I was going to miss them."

However, Range cut the lead to two points (53-51) and then Tim Hogan sank his two shots.

In the opening quarter, Granite City jumped to a 5-0 lead on a basket by Vetter and a three-point play by Tom Tajoy. However, five was the biggest lead the Warriors would get as Collinsville roared back and led 15-14 after the quarter.

The Kahoks led for most of the second quarter, but only by three points. The Warriors took its only lead late in the period (26-25) but Range's jumper gave Collinsville a 27-26 advantage at the intermission.

Collinsville led the entire third quarter, but the biggest cushion was four points. The Warriors managed to tie the score with 30 seconds left on a layup by Gray after a steal. However, a layup by Barberis gave the Kahoks a 39-37 lead after three quarters.

linsville's John Barberis and Dave Stephens both had a chance to tip in the tying basket, but the ball would not fall.

After a foul on Jon Sherry with one second remaining, and the Warriors up 55-53, Jamie Hogan was at the line.

The rebound came to John Barberis. The buzzer had sounded but Barberis turned and swished his full-court shot (an estimated 60-footer) at the other end.

"I looked at the clock and I knew the shot was no good, but I didn't think he would make it. That was something," said Gray.

Barberis and Bob Range paced Collinsville each scoring 12 points. Stephens added 11.

But Granite City won this game with a combination of good ball handling and defense. Granite City forced 11 Kahok turnovers and only committed five themselves.

"Collinsville gives us a tough game every time," said Tim Hogan. "But the thing about this game is we played defense."

In the three previous meetings, the Warriors had surrendered 66, 68 and 71 points to the Kahoks. Friday night was a different story.

After Sherry canned two foul shots with 6:23 left giving Collinsville a 42-39 lead, the Kahoks were content to hang on to the ball.
